Impossible to Keep Domestic in Montana Who Are Worth Their Salt.
Perhaps the demand for domestic servants is as generally unsatisfied in the Northwest as in any other section. I have yet to visit the happy, happy land where the servant-girl problem does not exist as the principal source of domestic gloom, but here it is certainly to be found at its worst. It is utterly impossible to keep a girl, says a Montana correspondent of the New York Tribune. The female half of the population, while large and growing, is still in a considerable measure the smaller half, and young women of every degree are quoted as far more than they would fetch elsewhere. This remark may not be gallant, and yet it ought to be valuable to such young women in the East as feel themselves unappreciated. The cases are counted in hundreds where a girl has entered a family as a cook or chambermaid and thereafter remained as daughter-in-law. It is highly unprofitable to fetch girls from Eastern cities. If they are worth their salt they go off and get married often before they have earned the price of their railway fare. Servants' wages are 100 per cent. higher in Montana than in New York. The cooks on the railway dining-cars receive $60 a month. In private families $30 is the lowest wages offered, and some are paid as much as $100.

The girl experiment is so generally unsatisfactory that many families employ negro men and Chinamen. The way to get a Chinaman is to tell another Chinaman you want one. He will spare you all the trouble and expense of dealing with an employment agency. An officer at Fort Custer who had imported girl after girl only to have them come to him within a month or two and slipper out that they were going to get married, was at last advised by a friend to procure a mongolian. "I have one," said the friend, "and he is a perfect jewel. If you like, I'll tell him to find one for you." The officer gladly consented, and in the course of a day or two, when his wife went to the kitchen to prepare dinner she found a Chinaman, cased and white-vested, already at work among the pans. She cheerfully retired in his favor. About a week later, when the officer and his wife sat down to dinner, they observed that the heathen in attendance upon them was not the heathen who had been serving them for the past week, but an entirely new and different one. They also observed that the dinner before them, was much superior to the dinners their late heathen had supplied. They presently inquired of their new heathen what had become of their old one.

"He no good," answered John. "He some washee, but he no cook. Wing Ting tell him go and he say me come!"
Wing Ting, it appeared, was the heathen belonging to their friend.

THE DARKY DUCKED.

It Was a Trick Learned During the War and It Served Him Well.
From where we sat on the terrace veranda we could look right across the Mississippi river, although at the edge of the river on our side there was a bluff forty feet high, with a strong current below. All along this bluff, says a writer in the New York Sun, were common, and we had an unobstructed view. We were talking and smoking when a goat came around the corner of an abandoned warehouse and began to feed toward us. Five minutes later an old white-headed darky, using a cane to help him along, came out from behind the same warehouse and stood almost on the edge of the bluff, and appeared to gaze across the river.

"What a fat take that goat has got, if he only knew it!" whispered one of the party.

"What a fool of a nigger to take such a risk!" growled a second.

We ought to have warned the old man, who seemed totally unsuspecting of danger, but we didn't. Human nature is just that. He had been there two or three minutes when the goat observed him and began to twitch his tail. It was none of his business that the man was there, and no law compelled him to kick up a fuss, but we all saw that he meant to do it. As he gathered for a run every man rose up to warn the victim, but no warning was uttered. It was human nature to want to see the fun. The goat shot away like a flash, and as he drew near he made a long jump to get full force to the intended blow. Next instant both had disappeared, and we ran down expecting to see them struggling in the muddy waters. As we reached the bluffs the old man rose up from a pit dug within two feet of the edge, and grinned and lifted his hat and said: "Mawin' gentlemen. 'Spected to find me down dar, I reckon."

He pointed to the goat, which was swimming wildly about as the current carried it down, and one of the party replied:

"Yes, we certainly thought you were a goat. You dropped in there, eh? You must have been pretty quick about it!"

"Wall, sorter, but dat was no trick at all. Durin' de wah, when de Yankee gunboats lay ober dar 'an' frowed shot at de guns up heah, I war one of de cull'd gentlemen who handled de shot 'an' de sand bags. Dat's how I larned to duck. Den de Yankees didn't know me, 'an' dey kept tryin' to kill me, 'an' I had to duck 'an' dodge so often dat arter de wah closed I nebber got straightened up agin. Ise been layin' fur dat goat mowin' two weeks, and now he's gone and wuck'n' bodder nobody no mo'! I used to cuss dat wah when it was goin', but now I see what a blessin' it was. What would de one man be now if de Yankees had not frowed ten tons of cannon balls at him 'an' farned him to duck!"

GLOVES OF HUMAN SKIN.

They Are Soft, Pliable and Much Sought For in France.

"Gloves which are sold as kid are often made of human skin," said Dr. Mark L. Nardys, the Greek physician, to a Philadelphia Record reporter. "The skin on the breast," continued the physician, "is soft and pliable, and may be used in the making of gloves. When people buy gloves they never stop to question about the material of which they are made. The shop-keeper himself may be in ignorance, and the purchaser has no means of ascertaining whether the material is human skin or not. The fact is, the tanning of human skin is extensively carried on in France and Switzerland. The product is manufactured into gloves, and these are imported into this country. Thus you see a person may be wearing a part of a distant relative's body and not know it."

Then the doctor drew from a drawer a brand-new pair of black gloves. "There," he said, "is a fine article made from the skin of a child. As the hide of a kid compares with that of a goat, so, of course, does the skin of a child compare with that of an adult, and it is much sought in France for glove purposes. The skin on a man's back makes good sole leather," said the doctor. "Nature has protected man's spine by a skin which is much heavier than that on other parts of the body. Here is a piece of well-tanned skin from the calf of a man's leg. And the doctor displayed a bit of white leather, strong and thick.

In a museum in Belgium are the bodies of six members of one family. They were all buried in a tan-yard, and when they were exhumed, years afterward, the skin, flesh, and even the bones were well preserved, so thoroughly tanned were all the parts. These specimens are in a better state of preservation than are the Egyptian mummies.

A few years ago General Ben Butler effectually checked the tanning of human skin in Massachusetts, and since that time the business has ceased. The few samples of tanned human skin now obtainable were made by scientists as an experiment. Dr. Nardys formerly possessed a fine pair of slippers made of the skin of a member of the genus homo, but his wife did not like the idea of her husband literally wearing a dead man's shoes, and so one day they vanished. The doctor does not say a word, but he thinks he knows who is responsible for their disappearance.

NO JOKE AFTER ALL.

How a Country Boy Fell Into an Excellent Position.

"I will tell you how a youth fell into a soft snap and finally got to the head of a big concern," said an old timer to a Boston Globe man the other day. "It was all the result of a joke and happened in this way: Myself and a friend were standing on Washington street one day when we were accosted by a boy of about fourteen, who said he had just come from the country and was looking for work. I asked him what he could do, and he replied that he was willing to do any thing for an honest dollar. I thought over every one of my acquaintances in business, but was in doubt, feeling that none of them needed a boy. Finally I told the young man that I couldn't think of any one to recommend him to. My companion, who was a wag of the first water, here put in his oar and said: "Send him to me. He is going to discharge his boy, and I guess he'll hire you. Keep a stiff upper lip, tell him you won't take no for an answer, that you must have work and are willing to work hard. He'll try to put you off, but don't let him. If necessary tell him I said he wanted a boy."

"My friend gave the boy his name and the lad departed. When he was gone my friend informed me that he felt sorry for deceiving him, as he was a bright and honest-looking young fellow. I gave the matter little attention, save to reprimand my wagging friend.

"About ten years afterwards my friend was sitting in the waiting-room at Parker's when a young gentleman approached him and said: "I believe your name is—"

"That's my name," said my friend, "but you're the advantage of me; I don't know yours."

"Do you remember telling a boy once about somebody who wanted help? You were with another gentleman in front of a store on Washington street."

"I believe I do," said my friend, after some hesitation. "I was speaking about it the other day. I lied to you, sir, I know, and have felt pretty sore for it since."

"Oh, no, you didn't lie," said the young man. "That is to say, you didn't want to hire a boy. He hired me, and I am now his manager. Here is my card. I shall be happy if I can repay you."

"My friend showed me the card a few days later. The firm whose name was on it is doing a business of several hundred thousand dollars a year in this city."

This is the season of the year when the air is cold and the wind is strong. The hands and complexion. Soft, white hands and a clear "peachy" complexion can be assuredly preserved by the frequent application of Dr. Richardson's. If rubbed into the skin it leaves no greasy surface. The skin becomes it. Sold by William Farniger.

The petition of J. Potter having been presented to me at judicial chambers, asking that an order of court be made, directing a sale by him as guardian of said A. E. Henn, insane, of certain real property belonging to said Henn, for the purpose of raising funds for his support and paying the expenses of his commitment to the Insane Asylum, it is therefore ordered that said petition be heard at the courtroom at Reno.

On 11th Day of September, 1889,

At the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, all persons interested in said estate are directed to be and appear before the court at said time and place and show cause as they or any of them may have for not so doing, and to be made authorizing and directing the guardian to sell said real property, or so much of it as may be necessary.

This order may be published in the RENO EVENING GAZETTE, published at Reno, Nevada, to wit: on the 11th day of August, A. D. 1889.

Rheumatism and Neuralgia

Paine's Celery Compound has permanently cured the worst cases of rheumatism and neuralgia—so say those who have used it. Having been troubled with rheumatism at the knee and foot for five years, I was almost unable to get around, and was very often confined to my bed for weeks at a time. I used only one bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and was perfectly cured. I can now jump around, and feel as lively as a boy. FRANK CARROLL, Safford, Nevada. "Paine's Celery Compound" has been a God-send to me. For the past two years I have suffered with neuralgia of the heart, doctor after doctor failing to cure me. I have now taken nearly four bottles of the Compound, and am free from the complaint. I feel very grateful to you. CHAS. H. LEWIS, Central Village, Ct.

Paine's Celery Compound

"I have been greatly afflicted with acute rheumatism, and could find no relief until I used Paine's Celery Compound. After using six bottles of this medicine I am now cured of rheumatic troubles."

SAMUEL HUTCHINSON, So. Cornish, N. H.

Effects Lasting Cures

Paine's Celery Compound has performed many other cures as marvelous as the foregoing. Copies of letters sent to any address. Pleasant to take, does not disturb, and aids digestion, and entirely restores the system. What's the use of suffering longer with rheumatism or neuralgia?

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

THE Journal wants the streets sprinkled, and so does everyone, if they thought about it. It costs more to wash ladies' and children's clothes and black men's shoes and dust the furniture than sprinkling would cost. It is impossible for a lady to walk a block or cross a street without having her skirts, shoes and stockings soiled and made ready for the wash-board. Children going to school are loaded with dirt before they get half way, and it costs money and wears out clothes to wash them, to say nothing of health. The city could afford to buy a cheap outfit and keep it going on the outside streets. Twice a week would help a great deal, and all the town could be gone over that often at least.

It is said that Secretary Proctor has been investigating the matter of the details of sundry officers of the army for year after year to the soft places, to the detriment of the officers on the frontier who have no political "pull" and never get anything fat, and that he finds the charge is true and is going to give the service a general shaking up and a new deal. The announcement made every time a new secretary of war comes to the front, is getting somewhat monotonous. It begins to look as though after the "shaking up" the old crowd settled back into the soft places and nothing comes of it.

THE secret of Emperor William's popularity is out at last. A cable message says that he shakes everybody's hand with the hearty grip of a candidate for office. Now, any man who has mastered the scientific grip of the candidate's hand has a fortune at his finger's ends. There is nothing in this world that approaches subtle influence over the human family, and we congratulate the Teutonic traveler on his success. He is bound to ride on the topmost wave of popularity.

AN exchange suggests that Hannibal Hamlin be treated to a dose of the elixir of life and put on the political track again. Hannibal Hamlin is a better man as he is than the majority of men who are swelling around in politics to-day.

LOSING HER POPULATION.

The last Vermont Legislature appointed a Commissioner to set forth by circulars and advertisements the agricultural advantages of that State. The Commissioner complains that many of the old farmers have left their farms and many of their sons have left the state and gone elsewhere. He states that the object of the Commission was to ascertain what means could be devised to check the gradual decrease of cultivated farms in the township and the outflow of young men and women, and thus repopulate the lands thus left without tenants. He estimates that there are twenty thousand acres of good cultivable land which are now abandoned. Others express their belief that the estimate is much too low—that the worst has not been told. However this may be, the Commissioner, forming no response at home, suggests that the unoccupied land be thrown open to colonization. To this end he has been in correspondence with a prominent Swede in Nebraska, who is said to be experienced in the business of founding colonies of his countrymen. The latter promises to examine the depopulated lands in question, and if found satisfactory to bring over a colony of fifty families in the spring.

An Average Case of Detective Work.

Clarence Buck has commenced suit in the District Court of Elko county, against W. C. Price, G. W. Pelzer, G. W. Baker and G. W. Sherman for $15,000 damages for malicious prosecution. The Free Press says the suit is the outcome of the unwarranted arrest of Charles Buck for the alleged blowing up of the residences of Price and Pelzer at Tuscarora. Baker was the attorney for Price & Pelzer, and Sherman is the detective who "worked up" the case. It is hoped that the matter will now be sifted to the bottom.

Spirit Cure Murders.

The Supreme Court of Wisconsin has confirmed the indictment of a clairvoyant doctor, by whose advice a patient with a curable hip disease neglected surgical treatment and has become a cripple for life. The verdict of the Court, decides that "spirit cure physicians" will hereafter be liable to prosecution for malpractice.

HARRISON'S POPULARITY.

Enthusiastically Greeted.

CINCINNATI, August 21.—Amid the booming of cannon and cheers from the vast multitude gathered at the central station, the President of the United States arrived here at quarter after ten o'clock. The crowds at every station, as the train came humming down this morning, gave cheers when the train stopped. The President is being besieged by eager patriots to shake hands. The party included President Harrison, Attorney-General Miller, Secretary Rusk, Hon. John B. Elam, Gen. Thomas G. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and others.

The Central Union depot was packed and there was almost a constant ovation of applause until he reached the carriage, which he occupied with Governor Foraker, escorted by the First Regiment of the Ohio National Guards and Battery B of the Ohio National Guards. The latter fired a salute, which added to the volume of cheering as the President was making his way to the carriage. The line of march to the Burnett House was packed with shouting people, while the windows were alive with men, women and children, all joining in the boisterous welcome of the Chief Magistrate. The President rode almost continually with his hat in his hand and was almost constantly bowing his acknowledgments to the enthusiastic greetings. The common expression among those who had not seen him since the end of last fall's campaign was, "How well he looks." Arriving at the Burnett House, a public reception in the elaborately adorned parlors was begun almost immediately. At the end of three quarters of an hour the President was driven to the Builders' Exchange, where another address of welcome was made by President Allison of that body. Here again, as at the Burnett House, was a great press of people to shake hands.

From the Builders' Exchange the President was driven to the magnificent new building of the Chamber of Commerce, where it had been arranged that the members should have a reception for a quarter of an hour, then the public should be admitted for an hour, but the members became engulfed in the great mass of people that crushed into the hall. The President, in reply to the address, referred to the fact that in his youth he was at Cincinnati that he, a country boy, had his first glimpse of a great city. Notwithstanding the hour spent in handshaking, not nearly all of the throng present could be gratified.

Death of Buckley's Pard.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 21.—William T. Higgins, widely known as a Republican politician, died at his residence in this city at 8 o'clock this morning.

Higgins was born in Ireland in 1829, and would have been 61 years old on September 10th. He arrived in Boston when one year old, came to California in forty-nine, having been married in the East. He had been suffering from heart disease the past two years, and had been under the physicians care of late. He was out walking on Monday as usual; he had never been confined to his bed and was conscious up to the last moment.

Maybrick Case—A Formidable Strike.

LONDON, August 21.—Home Secretary Matthews has been in consultation with John W. Addison, leading counsel for the prosecution on the trial of Mrs. Maybrick.

The strike of the dock laborers is spreading; one thousand men on Commercial dock joined the strikers to-day. The Socialists are trying to lead the movement, a red flag being displayed. Thirty thousand dock men marched through the city to-day. They were orderly.

Probable Murder.

NEW YORK, August 21.—Richard Hanlan, the well-known figure at the pool rooms at the Coney Island race track, was shot and probably mortally wounded this morning in front of his residence, on West Forty-second street, by John McCue, a boarder in his house. He had ordered McCue to leave. The murderer was arrested.

A Fight to a Finish.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., August 21.—A fight to a finish, Queensbury rules, for a purse of $1,500 took place at the Southern California Athletic Club last night between Joe Ellingsworth of New York and Denny Kelleher of Boston. Ellingsworth was knocked out in the forty-third round by a blow on the neck.

An English Race.

LONDON, August 21.—The Stockton meeting of the great Northern St. Heath was won by Pinzon.

An Ocean Race.

NEW YORK, August 21.—Within the memory of the oldest seamen here, there never has so much interest been taken in the mid-August sailing as when four big steamships left port this afternoon. There certainly never were so many passengers at an August sailing before. The big racers, Teutonic, of the White Star Line; City of New York, of the Inman Line; Saale, of the North German Lloyd, and the City of Rome, of the Anchor Line, all had a fair number of saloon passengers, and all were eagerly discussing the merits of the several vessels. Of course the Teutonic and the City of New York were the favorites, for the great race eastward to Queens-town lies between them. Numerous bets were made before the departure of the two racers which will be settled in Liverpool. The odds slightly favored the Teutonic. The City of New York, City of Rome and the Teutonic passed down the river within a half an hour of each other, in the order named.

A Quislet of Woman-Killers.

NEW YORK, August 20.—Five condemned murderers are in the Tombs. They were turned over to the care of the Sheriff this evening at 8 o'clock, and twenty Deputy Sheriffs detailed to watch them. Unless the Governor interferes all will be hanged on Friday, August 23d. All five women-murderers and all white except one. The only one who expects to be saved from the scaffold is Charles Giblin, the most cold-blooded murderer of them all. Giblin's wife frequently visits him. Peckham, who cut his wife's throat, said his little child a few days ago. They were brought to visit him by a Sister of Charity. From the time a man is found guilty of murder in the first degree until he is hanged or his sentence commuted, the county allows him $1 a day for his food. This is supplied by the prison caterer. At present the condemned men are constantly under the surveillance of extra keepers. They all maintain a stolid front and seem to await their fate with calmness.

More Suspensions.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., August 21.—The Waukegan cotton goods mills, E. C. Toft, Treasurer, suspended payment to-day. The failure is connected with the disaster that overcame Lewis Brothers. The mills were reported to be in with Manville Slaters to the amount of a million of dollars, and the creditors have been coming down on them.

Waukegan & Company's liabilities are placed at $1,000,000, and the assets, according to the company, figure $2,000,000. The failure is directly due to that of Lewis Brothers. The North-ingham mills also suspend, and the Thornton worsted mills went under to-day. Their trouble is caused by the failure of Brown, Steese & Clark.

New Northern Pacific Mortgage.

NEW YORK, August 21.—A special meeting of the Northern Pacific Directors was held to-day. Villard's scheme for placing a consolidated mortgage of $100,000,000 was approved, and a special meeting of the preferred stockholders will be held on October 18th to formally ratify the mortgage. Twenty millions of the new bonds will be expended on terminals at Tacoma, Superior and elsewhere, and on additional equipments, and the balance of the bonds will be set aside for the obligations of the company and branch lines now outstanding. No action was taken in regard to a dividend on the preferred stock.

Trying to Save Murderers.

ALBANY, August 21.—William G. Howe appeared before Governor Hill this morning and made an argument upon his application of executive clemency for Charles Giblin, James Nolan and John Lewis, three of the five murderers now confined in the Tombs at New York awaiting execution on Friday. At the conclusion of the argument, the Governor said he would grant Giblin a respite for sixty days, but the application for Nolan and Lewis were declined.

A Gasoline Explosion.

PITTSBURG, August 21.—The gasoline at the oil refinery of A. D. Miller & Son, Allegheny City, exploded at 3 o'clock this morning with a frightful noise. The entire place was immediately fired, and was rapidly destroyed. Thornton Miller, the engineer is missing, and probably perished in the flames, and Perry Herich, the watchman, was thrown many feet and badly burned and bruised. The loss is at least $225,000.

A Bad Wreck.

ELMIRA, N. Y., August 21.—A bad wreck has occurred on the Erie road. At Big Flats last night two freight cars collided and a flagman was sent back to stop passenger train No. 2, which failed to obey orders. Two engines and nearly a dozen cars were burned. Engineer Andrew Wallace and Fireman Charles Kimball were fatally scalded. A driver named Woodhall and several passengers were slightly injured.

Examination Postponed.

STOCKTON, August 21.—The preliminary examination of Neagle was set for this morning at 10 o'clock, but as Neagle is in the custody of the Federal authorities his examination was postponed until Friday.

Cretans Ask Protection.

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 21.—The Sultan's yacht will cover a special mission, accompanied by a large suit to meet the Emperor and Empress of Germany. It is reported that a deputation of Cretans are going to Athens to solicit Emperor William's protection.

Can Be Spared.

NEW YORK, August 21.—Among those who sailed for Europe this afternoon were Parson Davies and Peter Jackson, the colored Australian pugilist, who sailed on the City of Rome.

Her Second Trial.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 21.—The cruiser Charleston, went to sea this morning for a second trial trip.

Guest of Blaine.

Growth of the West.

One has to read industriously to keep up with the progress of the great Northwest. Max O'Rell tells a story in his "Brother Jonathan" of a Western man in a very growing town who, on account of the constant encroachments of the young city upon the cemetery, was obliged to remove his wife's body three times. It is a wonderful country, and sheer force of circumstances is still compelling many a lucky farmer to cut up his 160-acre homestead into town lots.

Mine Patent Contest.

There is a contest being heard in the Federal Land Office at Sacramento of the people of Iowa Hill against John Holden and other for a mineral patent to the greater portion of the town site.

Self Defense Against a Dangerous

Forewarned is not forearmed in the case of those who incur the risk of an attack from a dangerous foe, malaria, unprovided with a means of defense. But if those in peril are aided, sustained and reinforced with the great fortifying safeguard, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, malarial, profligate, and evil manifested in the shape of bilious remittent and chills and fever, ague, dumb ague and the odorous of the malarious and Central American coast, is nullified and rendered harmless. Our western pioneer settlers and miners, dwellers in tropic lowlands, and victims of and dwellers in malarious localities in this country and many quarters of the globe, have for years been acquainted with the fact and are constantly provided with this unparalleled defensive medicine and remedy. All disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, rheumatic and kidney complaints and rheumatism are conquered by it.

Combines the juice of the Blue Figs of California, so laxative and nutritious, with the medicinal virtues of plants known to be most beneficial to the human system, forming the ONLY PERFECT REMEDY to act gently yet promptly on the KIDNEYS, LIVER AND BOWELS. Cleanse the System Effectually, PURE BLOOD, REFRESHING SLEEP, HEALTH AND STRENGTH. Naturally follow. Every one is using it and all are delighted with it. Ask your Druggist for SYRUP OF FIGS. The favorable impression produced on the first appearance of the agreeable liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs a few years ago has been more than confirmed by the pleasant experience of all who have used it, and the success of the proprietors and manufacturers—the Cal. Fig Syrup Company.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the only remedy that can always be depended upon for bowel complaint in all its forms; 25 and 50-cent bottles for sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.

A GENEROUS MAN.

Matt McCabe, of New Brunswick, Ill., offers to pay five dollars to any person troubled with bloody flux, who will take Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy according to directions and does not get well in the shortest possible time. One-half bottle of this remedy cured him of bloody flux, after he had tried other medicines and the prescriptions of physicians without benefit. Mr. McCabe is perfectly safe in making this offer, as more than a thousand bottles of this remedy are sold each day and it has never been known to fail in any case of colic, cholera morbus, dysentery, diarrhoea or bloody flux, when the plain printed directions were followed. For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.

A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought another and grew better, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 150 pounds. For further particulars send stamp to W. H. Cole, druggist, 201 Smith. Trial bottles of this wonderful Discovery free at S. J. Hodgkinson's.

Death of William Campbell.

In another column will be seen the death notice of William Campbell, who arrived on the Pacific Coast from Louisville, Kentucky, in September, 1849.

Having been engaged in hotel keeping the greater part of the time since his arrival in California he was brought in direct contact with very many people, and was well known by a large number who will grieve to hear of his sudden taking off.

Only a few days ago he was taken with pneumonia, which soon assumed a typhoid form, and he passed away this morning at ten minutes past 12 o'clock, surrounded by three daughters, a son and a son-in-law.

The relatives have decided to take the remains below this evening and bury them by the side of his late wife at Lincoln, California.

Another Mudden Death.

This afternoon about 3 o'clock, Alfred Wilson, who for many years has been a well-known citizen of Reno, experienced a stroke of paralysis and lived but a few minutes thereafter. Deceased was a native of England and leaves a widow, two daughters and two sons.

On the Way.

The U. S. Senatorial Committee left Ogden last night on No. 2 and at Wells this morning was given a special engine with which to come to Reno. They will arrive here to-night some time and spend to-morrow in Reno. The committee sent the following dispatch:

Hon. W. M. Stewart and Committee, Carson:—Washington extends a hearty welcome and invites you to name an hour for the meeting at the Opera House, to-morrow, also to visit Hon. Independence, Webster, Tahoe and the summit of the Sierras.

The answer was as follows: The train will be in Reno between 8 and 9 o'clock. If the citizens will assemble in the Theater at 9 to-night Senators Reagan and Jones of Arkansas, as well as Major Powell will address them. We will remain in Reno and leave for Carson about 10 o'clock to-morrow morning. Will leave Carson the next morning via Lake Tahoe. Time is limited and programme must be carried out. W. M. Stewart.

The Phoenix.

The Phoenix Hotel (formerly Pollard House) is a most striking building, and as passengers from the East arrive in Reno the first thing that strikes their eyes is this substantial structure, and about the first question the ask is, "What is that brick block?" Mr. Killen, the genial proprietor, is rushing things as fast as he can, and will have his house open to the public very soon now. He proposes to keep the GAZETTE readers posted on his operations.

BREVITIES.

Local and General Intelligence.

A. W. Fox of San Francisco is in town.

Building associations are becoming popular in Oregon.

There is some talk of giving Joseph Roda, a cruel wife-beater at Grass Valley, a dose of tar and feathers.

Joshua Brown, a pioneer of Oregon, died near Independence Monday. He leaves an estate valued at $100,000.

Robert Dickerson, sixty years of age, a resident of Oroville, Cal., was drowned in the Feather river while fishing Saturday.

The GAZETTE force has again been placed under obligations to Berry & Novacovich for a couple of immense Lodi water-motors.

A young man named James Lamore, a Yale student from St. Louis, was killed by a falling tree near Tacoma last Saturday.

Fifty-four additional stalls have been contracted for at Agricultural Park at Sacramento. Kilip has been awarded the pool-selling privileges.

The Tribune says the reason that none but second-class California fruit is received in Carson is because it has all been picked over and sent East.

The first, second and third officers of the steamer Corona, as well as the pilot, sold their berth at a premium of $100 every trip to Alaska this season.

A searching party has been organized to unearth Confederate guns said to have been buried in New Mexico during the retreat of General Sibley's army of Texans.

Commissioner Hymers and J. J. Becker continue to call on the citizens of this community for contributions to the State Fair, and they report that they are doing very well.

A minister once began his praying after the choir had performed an anthem by saying: "Lord, thou understandest what the choir has said, though we did not understand a word."

It now appears that the tracks made by Sharp, the escaped stage robber, were discovered so long after the prisoner left, that they are of no more value to the pursuers than the tracks of a noble Eilerson would be.

Another hoodlum act of some hoodlum boy has been perpetrated lately at the Congressional Church. Wire screens were recently put up on the belfry to keep out pigeons, and some one has taken the pains to climb up and cut an opening large enough to admit the pests.

For the benefit of those not possessed of sufficient comprehension to be able to understand that the GAZETTE had no reference to the Reno Fourth of July committee, in a recent item relative to the methods of the Virginia City committee, we will say that the Reno committee not only paid every penny of their obligations, but made several presents to those who took active parts in the celebration.

PERSONAL.

Ex-Governor Adams was in town this morning.

Hon. W. D. C. Gibson was in town last evening.

Chat Roberts and wife came in last evening from Long Valley.

Mr. Coleman of the Virginia Chronicle was in town last night.

Joe Douglass, the Comstock capitalist, was in town last evening.

Several distinguished looking Japanese passed east on this morning's overland.

George S. Nixon, cashier of the Winnemucca Bank, was in town this morning.

C. L. Hanna, the popular agent of the Union Pacific, is here after Reno business.

R. J. Laws and wife of Hawthorne, C. & C. R. R., arrived from below this morning on their way home.

Mrs. Bender, mother of D. A. W. S. and C. T. Bender and Mrs. H. M. Yerington, was visiting her Reno relatives yesterday.

Mrs. Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kinkead, arrived from California this morning on a visit to her Reno relatives and friends. She was accompanied by the young granddaughter.

Major Strachan, of the British Indian army, and F. A. Pavlett, a prominent merchant of Melbourne, Australia, who are making their first visit to the United States, arrived in Carson via Lake Tahoe, Monday evening and went on to Virginia City by the passenger train to see the wonders of the Comstock.

A Libel Suit.

D. L. Truman, an Austin attorney, has sued the Revue for $10,000 damages, caused by an article in the above paper. The Silver State is of the opinion that it will be difficult for Mr. Truman to convince a jury that he has not placed his damages a great deal too high.

A Fine Vegetable.

Professor W. S. Devoil to-day presented the GAZETTE office with a nice package of Black Wax snap beans, grown at the "experiment station." They were as fine as this scribe ever saw.

J. SUNDERLAND FURNITURE.

We have spent many years perfecting our Mail Order Department, and the many orders we are now receiving daily is proof that our work has met with universal satisfaction.

We have just issued A Handsome, Illustrated CATALOGUE,

Containing nearly 300 illustrations. It is undoubtedly the most complete furniture catalogue ever issued. The representations are truthful, and parties at a distance need not hesitate in ordering, as WE POSITIVELY GUARANTEE SATISFACTION.

Year after year we have been Awarded First Premium at California State Fair.

We make the very finest furniture in California, which is proven by the fact that we frequently receive orders from Oakland, San Francisco and other large cities.

We also carry a Line of Cheap Medium Furniture.

Special attention is called to the fact that the freight charges from Sacramento are considerably less than from other points.

Send for our Catalogue.

JOHN BREUNER, 604, 606, 608 K Street, [my6dw] Sacramento

Got His Pension.

The Lyon county Times says: Old Sam Chambers, familiarly called "Sam Slick," who is an old soldier, and who received injuries to his eyes while at Fort Churchill that affected them so that he is now almost blind, has received notice that he has been granted a pension of $30 a month. He will draw back pay from December 27, 1886. It is through the efforts, mainly, of J. C. Hackett, that Sam's pension was put before the proper authorities, and he deserves much credit for following the matter up and uniting the numerous red tape knots.

Sam is now desirous of becoming an inmate of the Soldiers' Home. It would be a good place for the old veteran.

A Big Crop.

Parties who are familiar with that country say the Sierra county plum crop is the largest for years and as good as it is large. A dozen wagons a day are loaded and sent off. H. P. Brown and Ben Peck got home last night with a full cargo. They say the hills around Loganville are covered with the finest kind of fruit, but it will be gone in a week.

Will be Prosecuted.

Agents looking up fraudulent and water-right entries are making important discoveries in the Upper Blackfoot river region of Idaho where fine, natural meadows have been covered by desert entries. One tract of 11,000 acres claimed by prominent Utah Mormons has ten mowing machines cutting thousands of tons of hay, dry as the season is. Prosecution will follow.

Hornless Cattle.

If a farmer wishes hornless cows he need take no knife, saw or other implement to do them. W. Brazelton of Montecello, Ia., writes to the Philadelphia Press that a penny's worth of caustic potash applied just as the horns is starting, when the calf is a few weeks old, will stop all horn growth and do no injury at the time or after to the animal.

Remarkable Properties of a Spring.

The Paso Robles, Cal., Leader says: There is on the Cammatta rancho a spring which challenges the attention of scientists, physicians and people who are afflicted with nervous diseases, dyspepsia or sleeplessness. The waters of this spring have the power of putting the strongest man asleep in a few moments.

A BUTTON ROMANCE.

Whole Attention.

He was about to say adieu, when he thought of some word to flatter, when from his overcoat there flew a button, with a dismal clatter. He blushed, with a woman's tact, as if she saw a good joke in it, cried laughingly, "There now, I'll act your tailor's part for just a minute. He doffed his coat and watched her thread the needle, and when she was bent over him, he said, "Now do you know," he softly said, "I have an awful lot of mending?" "A bachelor, we'll say, like me, is at the mercy of his tailor and then there's something else you see in this he turned a trifle paler. "My heart needs mending much, I fear, do you suppose that you could do it?" Well, I don't know," she mused, but, dear, I'll give my whole attention to it."

Will Make Short Work of Them.

WOOD BUT NOT WON.
Major Milliken's Unfortunate and Expensive Mistake.
"Eh!" said Mr. Velvinton; "a serenade! What fair damsel is to be made happy now?"
He had walked unceremoniously into the quarters of his friend, Major Milliken, at the San Pedro Hotel, at Long Branch, and surprised that gentleman in the act of preparing various and sundry sheets of music for different instruments. The Major was in a becoming drowsy of wine-colored silk smoking-jacket, tasseled Persian cap and maroon velvet slippers.
"Yes," said the Major, with his lead-pencil between his teeth; "I take the cornet solo myself; Jefferson does the flute; Wyndham is good enough to undertake the violin, and we have got a fat professional for the bass viol who would really astonish you. He comes cheap, on account of not being able to speak the English language; but Jefferson spent a winter in Vienna once, and seems to make him understand very well. Would you like a piccolo or a French horn?"
"No, I thank you," said Mr. Velvinton, lighting his cigar. "But you haven't told me yet who your serenade is for."
"Miss Walsingham," said Major Milliken, complacently.
Velvinton indulged himself in a long whistle.
"Oh! I wouldn't!" said he.
"Eh!" ejaculated the Major.
"It isn't worth while," said Velvinton, assuming a mysterious air.
"But she's worth seventy-five thousand dollars!" gasped Major Milliken.
"Seventy-five thousand fiddle-strings!" said Mr. Velvinton, supremely contemptuous.
"Did fellow, you've been completely deluded—she hasn't a cent! It all belongs to old Mrs. Button, her aunt. Don't you understand? She—"
At this juncture, however, a hall-boy from the opposite hotel rushed in with a telegram for Mr. Velvinton, which required immediate attention; and Major Milliken was left stranded among the sheets of music, a love-lorn Robinson Crusoe on a desert island of uncertainty.
Mr. Mark Anthony Velvinton did not come back. He left Long Branch by the next train, and the broken sentence never was finished.
"But it was a lucky circumstance," mused the Major, "that he told me about Zuleima Walsingham before he went away. She is a pretty creature, but I'm not situated so that I can afford to marry for love. And if it's old Mrs. Button that holds the purse-strings, then I mean to go for old Mrs. Button. If Mr. Ashmead Bartlett married the Baroness Burdette Coutts, why can't I do the sweetly sentimental Mrs. Button, who certainly isn't over fifty, and a well-preserved woman at that!"
So, with a sickliness scarcely to be believed, Major Milliken began to pay particular attention to Mrs. Button.
Zuleima Walsingham, a dewy-eyed young beauty with long lashes, pink cheeks and jet-black hair "banged" over her very eyebrows, drooped a little at this sudden desertion.
"I thought he loved me," said Miss Walsingham, dabbing her eyes with her pocket handkerchief.
"Men are fickle, my dear," said Aunt Button, who was sitting herself in a dress of ruby velvet, with diamonds enough to set up the wardrobe of a Grand Mogul.
"He has done every thing but propose to me," said the fair Zuleima, with a sob.
"You didn't really care for him, did you, my dear?" said Mrs. Button, pausing, with one diamond ear-drop in her ear and the other balanced in her hand.
"Y-y-yes," faltered Zuleima, "I'm afraid I did, Aunt Button!"
"Oh, you—goose!" said the old lady, emphatically.
"But he's so handsome!" said Zuleima.
"And such fascinating manners I never did see in any man."
"Stuff and nonsense!" said Mrs. Button. "If girls will be such fools I can't blame the men for imposing on 'em."
And Mrs. Button, considering old lady that she was, never told Miss Walsingham that Major Milliken had transferred his roving affections—to all appearance, at least—to her substantial self.
"La, Major!" she had said, when the ardent lover laid his first offering—in the shape of a bouquet of tea-rose buds (twenty of them, at twenty-five cents each) at the red velvet shrine. "I don't understand this at all. I thought you were sweet on my niece, Zuleima Walsingham!"
"Do you suppose, Mrs. Button," said the Major, dramatically, "that a man can worship a pale star when the silver moon herself is in sight?"
"Well, I don't know about that," said Mrs. Button. "I never was much of an astrologist. But these roses are very nice, and I'm sure I thank you kindly. As for the other thing, I suppose there ain't no law against young men changing their minds, so long as they steer clear of breach-of-promise cases."
"There are times, Mrs. Button," said the Major, pathetically, "when a man's heart is no longer under his own control."
"Dear, dear!" said Mrs. Button.
The amateur serenading band made night melodious in the vicinity of Mrs. Button's window (the exact geography of which was ascertained by a bribe to the hotel porter) with "Ab, mio cor," "Believe me, if all those endearing young charms," and such soul-seducing ballads. By d'ylight mysterious messengers brought baskets of hot-house fruits, carefully-selected bouquets, French bon-bons and all the latest publications, with Major Milliken's card.
"Really," said Mrs. Button, "I don't know what to say."
"Then, dear madam," pleaded the ardent Major, "don't say any thing."
He took the old lady out to walk on the pier when the band played; he read Jean Ingelow to her in the evenings, until she fell fast asleep and snored; he drove her on the Beach road, and haunted her movements like a high-spirited shadow, while poor Zuleima Walsingham mourned in secret. And at last the moment came in which he judged it wise and expedient to tell the story of his love.

Mrs. Button's proper name, however, was something of a stumbling-block. "Loruhamah" was a mouthful for any one to speak. "Lo" was too suggestive of the "Poor Indian," and "Hamah" did not seem at all appropriate. But "faint heart," the Major told himself, "never won fair lady," and he plunged headlong into the sweet chaos of love-making with a fortitude worthy of Curtius' self.
They were seated on the hotel piazza, in a sheltered corner, where the music of the band reached them, faint and far away, like a dream, and the tide of promenaders passed them by without disturbing them.
"Dear Mrs. Button," said the Major, with an effort, "I have something to say to you."
"Eh?" said Mrs. Button, fanning herself. "May I call you Loruhamah?" he pleaded.
"Oh, yes, if you like the name," said Mrs. Button. "I don't."
"To me," said Major Milliken, "it is the sweetest name in all the world."
"Tastes differ," said Mrs. Button.
"Loruhamah," said the Major, feeling that he had lost ground, and making a fresh start, "I love you. Will you be mine?"
Mrs. Button opened her eyes very wide. "You ain't in earnest, are you?" said she.
"Just say it again," said the old lady, with one hand behind her ear.
"Dearest, will you be my wife?" shouted Major Milliken, feeling very uncomfortable, as he could not fail to perceive that the surrounding world was beginning to appear interested in the affair.
"Oh, I couldn't," said the old lady. "On account of Mr. Button, you know."
"Of—"
"Mr. Button—my husband," said the matron. "He's out to Leadville, you know, superintending the mines. He ain't a Mormon. Neither am I. I'm obliged to you, all the same. And perhaps, now that you know it ain't any use coming philandering around me, you'll go back to Zuleima Walsingham."
The dreadful old lady chuckled as she uttered the words in a key altogether higher than was in the least necessary, and Major Milliken, with one or two muttered words of excuse, caught up his hat, and slunk out of the presence of the fair Loruhama.
"Well, my dear, I've had a proposal," said the old lady to her niece that evening. "From Major Milliken. And I think you're pretty well quits with him now."
"Oh, I don't care for him any more, aunt," said Zuleima, "since Mr. Carew has become so devoted."
"He's had enough of a punishment, aunt," said Zuleima. "Just think of what his florist's bill and livery-stable accounts will be."
"And won't he be angry, though," said Mrs. Button, "when he hears of your mining stocks, which everybody supposed a dead loss, turning up trumpets? Why, my dear, Carew ain't an idiot of what an heiress you will be."
"Don't tell him, aunt," whispered Zuleima Walsingham. "I'll tell him myself, by and by."
So she was won and wooed for herself alone; and Major Milliken lost two hidden treasures instead of one. And Aunt Button felt that her niece was avenged nobly.
But the fat professional never was paid for his services on the bass viol. N. Y.

Cholera in Michigan.
Dr. F. D. Larke, of Rogers City, Michigan, says the epidemic of last year in Presque Isle county, in which so many persons lost their lives, was cholera; dysentery instead of cholera as first reported. He used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and says it succeeded, where all other remedies failed. Not a single case was lost in which it was used. This remedy is the most reliable and most successful medicine known for colic, cholera, morbus, dysentery, diarrhoea and bloody flux. Twenty-five and fifty cent bottles for sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.
Oregon is one of the most productive States in the Union. Its vast mineral regions contain gold, silver, copper, iron and coal. Its immense tracts of grazing lands support thousands of cattle and sheep, and its extensive agricultural regions produce all the cereals in abundance, the yield per acre being, in some instances, the largest in the world. Among the useful and valuable products of the Western State may be mentioned Oregon Kidney Tea, which has proved a boon to thousands afflicted with pain in the back and kidney difficulties. It is purely of vegetable composition and never fails. Sold by William F. Pininger.
The immediate symptoms of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, are a distressing sense of weight, oppression and fullness in the stomach, heartburn, loss of appetite, foul breath, belching, flatulency, nausea, pains in the shoulders and breast. Dr. Henley's Dandelion Tonic promotes healthy digestion and removes all unhealthy symptoms. Sold by William F. Pininger.
It should be generally known that Dr. Henley's Dandelion Tonic insures a hearty appetite and increased digestion, dispels nervous depression and low spirits, overcomes lack of energy and wakefulness, and will infuse new life and strength into the weakest invalid. Sold by William F. Pininger.
Advice to Mothers.
MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle, by
